PARIS FROM AFAR

E. M. SAWYER ALSO SEES THE FRENCH CAPITAL FROM AN AIRPLANE

Mrs. F. D. Sawyer of 525 Orange street has had an interesting letter from her son E. Malcolm Sawyer, who is with the Telegraph Battalion in France and whose experiences have been somewhat similar to those of Jim Henry Ilse, whose letters have been published in this paper. The communication is dated May 30, 1918, and reads:

"Dear Mother and All:

There have been quite a few days in between my last letter and this, but I have been very busy packing and moving and getting settled. We are quite a ways from the front. We have been here four days and have seen and heard two air raids. They were about seven miles away but we could hear the firing and see the shrapnel bursting in the air, and now and then we could hear the Boches' long range gun, the one that shoots 75 miles.

The country round about here is the prettiest in France, with lots of big trees, elm, oak, chestnut, birch and pine. The scenery reminds me of New England. There is a big palace here and it is the most beautiful place I ever saw. I went all through the other day. It took 36,000 men and 6000 horses twenty-eight years to build it, and it only cost one hundred millions. I can not begin to describe it on paper.

There are several aviation camps near here and there are planes in the air all of the time doing stunts that a person would pay $2.50 to see in the States. I went over and visited one of the camps today and was invited to take a ride and I did. We went up for about 5000 feet and flew for fifteen miles. That was just about the greatest ride I ever took. We were traveling about ninety miles an hour and the wind just roared by. We made what is known as a "banked" turn and the aeroplane was just about vertical. When we started down the pilot pointed the nose right straight down and away we went. I do not know as I can describe the sensation except as one of exhilaration. We rose straight up and the plane rocked sidewise a little until we straightened out and then it was just like standing still and having a gale of wind blowing by your ears. Every once in a while we would strike an air pocket and drop three or four feet and then sail along. It was wonderful and the view was magnificent. We flew over Paris and on the way back came through, so I can say I have seen more than a great many others.

We came up to our new camp by auto, 270 miles, and it was a fine ride through beautiful country, much prettier than that we first saw. As I write this I can hear "Big Bertha" drop a shell every once in a while. Well, it is getting darker and on account of the air raids we are not allowed to have a light, so I guess I will quit. I have everything I need except money and it takes a lot to see these big cities. Good night, Mother, dear, don't worry.

E. M. SAWYER."

KRANZ FAMILY GO NORTH

P. A. Kranz, one of the comparatively old residents of Glendale, has disposed of his real estate business and gone north with the intention of locating in Berkeley. He is accompanied by his wife and two sons, Milton and Julius. Milton will enter the University of California there and Julius will return to Glendale. Mr. Kranz sold his home here a few months ago. They will be greatly missed and their friends entertain the hope that the charms of Southern California's climate will lure them back.

NEW SONGS

Mrs. Morris M. Cook of 219 Brand boulevard, who is the author of a number of songs, one of which ("Sammy Boy, We're All for You") was sung by her little daughter Doris at the Children's Society Vaudeville recently, and which is now on the press, will appear this afternoon at the entertainment to be given at the headquarters of the British Ambulance Society at the Westminster Hotel, Los Angeles, and will sing and play her own compositions, which will include the "Yankee Boy" number and a little Chinese melody which has not yet been published. Mrs. Cook is arranging to send a band score of the war song mentioned to her cousin, George Creel, head of the National Publicity Department in Washington, for the use of military bands in the Capitol city.

THE RED CROSS

CASHIER MAKES FINANCIAL STATEMENT. DR. HARROWER RESIGNS CHAIRMANSHIP

The board of directors and the department chairmen of the Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross held a business meeting at Red Cross headquarters over the Bank of Glendale, Brand boulevard, Monday evening. J. H. Braly, chairman of the Chapter, presided. The report of the previous meeting was read by the secretary, Mrs. H. S. Duffield.

Olin Spencer, who is acting vice-chairman in the absence of A. L. Lawshe, gave a report as to shipments of finished garments and also read communications from headquarters outlining departmental work. Workers in the surgical dressings department were urged to assist in the hospital garments department at times when there is not an urgent need for more surgical dressings. The general idea given out in the communication read was that all Red Cross work is war work, and it is perfectly right that willing workers be satisfied to work in any of the departments.

Dr. H. R. Harrower, who has been chairman of the entertainment committee since the organization of the Chapter, asked that his resignation be accepted, stating that this was the fourth time he had asked to be thus favored and insisted that action accepting his resignation be taken forthwith. On motion, the resignation of Dr. Harrower as chairman of the entertainment committee was accepted, and on motion a vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Harrower for services rendered as chairman of this committee.

On motion of Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of the refreshments committee, it was decided that the serving of refreshments other than frappe at entertainments be discouraged. Mrs. White explained that the purpose of her motion was to conserve the use of sugar, and that in her opinion it was not necessary for people to eat anything after having three meals during the day.

Chairman Braly reported that he had inspected 200 pairs of crutches ready for shipment that had been made in the work shop of the school by the boys under the direction of Dr. R. E. Chase. Mr. Braly said the crutches were specimens of fine workmanship and had been neatly crated by Mr. Spencer.

Miss Minnie Fink, cashier of the local Chapter, read the following interesting financial report:

Money on hand in General Fund	$ 730.69
Money on hand in Relief Fund	3,017.13
Money on hand in National Fund	35.75
Total in bank and in hand.		$3,783.57
Due from supporting pledges	$1,829.80
Per cent on war drive pledges	$ 299.12

Prof. Richardson D. White reported that for the past two weeks the salvage department had been somewhat dormant, but a partial reorganization is taking place with prospects of the department taking on an additional life.

Chairman J. H. Braly asked Vice-Chairman Spencer to occupy the chair, whereupon Mrs. Duffield, Secretary, read a very impressive communication from Chairman Braly, asking that his resignation as chairman of the Chapter be accepted. In the communication Mr. Braly reviewed his work and interest in the Chapter since its organization a year ago, and gave as his reason for wishing to resign that he contemplated being absent from Glendale many months in the near future and it would be an advantage to the Chapter to have a resident chairman whose advice and counsel could be had at all times. The directors and chairmen of departments were unprepared to consider Mr. Braly's motion, believing that it is for the best interest of the Chapter to have him remain at the head of the organization which has prospered so well under his guidance.

Directors and department chairmen present were J. H. Braly, Olin Spencer, Miss Minnie Fink, Mrs. H. S. Duffield, Mrs. E. M. Tufts, Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, Mrs. Glenwood Jones, Mrs. E. F. Parker, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, F. H. Vesper, A. T. Cowan, Dr. C. Irving Mills, Dr. H. R. Harrower, Mrs. Jack Boettner.

FRENCH TROOPS GAIN NEAR COMPEIGNE—ITALIAN OFFENSIVE IN ALBANIA GROWS STEADILY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 9.—French troops with tanks striking between Montdidier and the Oise advanced over a mile on a two and a half mile front northwest of Compeigne this morning. A German counter attack was repelled and 450 Germans made prisoner. Two important farms were captured. There is active artillery fire on the Aisne front and northwest of Chateau-Thierry.

LONDON, July 9.—German artillery continues to pound the new Australian positions south of the Somme. German troops made a successful raid east of Arras and made a number of prisoners.

ROME, July 9.—The Italian offensive in Albania is growing, the Austrians being pressed back everywhere. A British monitor co-operating with the allies, effectively bombed enemy positions from the sea. The Italians are splitting the Austrian units and attacking them from the rear.

GERMAN SOCIALIST DOUBTS OUTCOME

HERR STROEBEL SAYS GERMANY MUST RID HER GOVERNMENT OF WAR POLITICIANS IF SHE IS TO WIN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 9.—The resumption of the German drive is necessary but the result is in doubt, Herr Stroebel, Independent Socialist, told the Prussian Landtag according to reports reaching here via Zurich. Stroebel declared Germany had lost 100,000 men in killed alone during the spring drive and losses in future phases of the fighting would be higher. He stated that the 900,000 Americans in France would offset the German gain in manpower in releasing troops from the eastern front. We must rid our government of war politicians," he said.

Rumley swore that the Mail was owned by Americans instead of by the German government. His preliminary hearing was set for July 23.

GOSPEL EFFICIENCY

WOULD CUT OUT SOME SCENIC LINES IN ROUTING PEOPLE TO HEAVEN

Editor Daily News: The national program is one of unification. Pooling, consolidating, centralizing are on the regular card. Once they were under the ban and long-haired statesmen denounced all combinations with vinegar invective, but now they are the backbone of the governmental policy.

In this get-together program, this crusade for efficiency, it is a wonder that some ambitious politician has not urged the administration to take over the churches of the country and release a lot of sturdy preachers for active service overseas.

When a man will walk by half a dozen almost empty churches in order to get to the almost empty sanctuary of his own especial creed, it would seem that there was waste somewhere along the line. Within recent months the Times newspaper and magazine have had several articles dealing with the advancing movement for church consolidation. It has actually taken impetus as a war measure.

Because of conditions, if a man in Chicago now wishes to go to Southern California—and he certainly does—he is permitted the choice of but one line. Formerly he could be routed half a dozen different ways and could journey westward by paths as divergent as New Orleans and Winnipeg. He might kill a lot of time and behold some widely variant scenery, but in the end he brought up in little old Los Angeles.

In routing people to Heaven there is a disposition to cut out some of the scenic lines and have a short and direct road in which the almost unnecessary signposts may be easily understood. It was once permissible for each thinker to believe and argue that his creed alone entitled the holder to a ticket to Paradise—that all others were misguided souls routed to the wrong place. But that day has past. Even a hardshell Baptist will admit that an Episcopalian is a good fellow and is bound Heavenward. The only difference is he goes out Broadway instead of Spring street. Preachers can come together now without spending their time wrangling over the minor differences in their articles of faith. A creed seems more like a rubber band than a steel hoop. It can be stretched to admit a fat man and yet it will cling closely enough to hold a thin one.

The world is unmistakably drifting toward the idea of the community church. Of course there is something in the thought that having half a dozen churches inspires a wholesome competition for souls, but this doesn't always work out. More often it results in leaving two or three of them occupied with the mere struggle for existence that there is neither time nor thought for anything else. A preacher who is wondering where his next meal is coming from can hardly be expected to spread a banquet for his fellowman.

In the community church there is nothing to prevent the individual from clinging to his creed; only he carries it as a life preserver instead of a battleaxe. The church itself has a program instead of a creed. (Continued on Page 2)

IN HONOR OF A SOLDIER

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Starr of 1029 West Seventh street entertained at dinner on Sunday in honor of a cousin, Douglas R. Little, stationed at Camp Fremont, California, in Company D of 319th Engineers. He has been here on a five-day furlough, but has now returned to camp. A red, white and blue color scheme was carried out in the decorations for the pretty function, and the guest list included Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Little, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Freeman and daughter Hazel. The guest of honor was originally from Mojave. He has been in training for nearly a year and hopes soon to be sent forward to the fighting front.

HARD LUCK

Edmond Moffatt, who is one of the ground men in the Aviation Corps at Kelly Field, Texas, has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Moffatt of 1510 Hawthorne street, that his company was about to be sent overseas—to their great joy—when one of the boys became ill and now they are all in quarantine. He writes of other men who have "been across" and come back for recuperation and says: "If they have gone and come back, I guess we can, too." He also writes of having been taken up in one of the planes to an elevation of 5000 feet and was delighted with the experience.

THE RED CROSS LOT

TO BE SOLD IN CHANCES OF $1 EACH, THE WINNER TO SECURE A $1500 PROPERTY

To The Members of Glendale Lodge No. 1289:

America is now engaged in a war that must be won and the paramount duty of every Elk is to help win that war.

You have purchased Liberty bonds and War Savings Stamps and thereby loaned your money to your government, but what have you done for humanity? Now is the time to get busy and help sell the Elks Liberty Lot.

Brother Ezra Parker has donated to our Lodge a residence lot in the City of Glendale on Central avenue near Doran street, the appraised value of which is $1500.00. This lot is absolutely unencumbered and the new owner, whoever he or she may be, will receive a deed and a certificate of title showing the property free of all liens of every kind or character.

It has been concluded to dispose of the lot by chance, each chance to be worth one Red Cross dollar, or rather, each individual who donates a dollar to the Red Cross will receive one chance on the lot. The tickets are all printed, three thousand of them, and are in the hands of our secretary.

He will supply you with these tickets in batches as low as five each. And I, therefore, urge every member of 1289 to obtain a supply and to go out with a determination to sell at least that number. Of course, the members of 1289 will invest their own money to the extent of their ability but the main object of this notice at this time is to get our members to act as salesmen outside of the lodge. The public at large can and will take a chance in such a worthy cause. Remember, the entire proceeds go to the Red Cross.

The date for the drawing has not been definitely fixed, but will be announced within a reasonable time. Some one gives his life. Some mother gives her boy. Some father gives his son. Some sister gives her brother. But what are you giving?

Brother Parker has given two sons, who are now actively engaged in the service. This is more to him than life itself, and yet he gives again and again. If he can give a $1500.00 lot, surely you and all of your friends can and will give a dollar.

Come on, boys, let's do our duty. Fraternally,

BERT P. WOODARD,
Exalted Ruler.

CLERKS IN DEMAND

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Sawyer leave Thursday for Riverside and Redlands, where they will spend the summer with relatives and friends. Mr. Sawyer, who has charge of the Commercial Department of Glendale Union High, reports a strong local demand for bookkeepers and stenographers which he has been unable to fill. On calling up the graduates of the department he ascertained that all were profitably employed. This is strong testimony to the practical value of this department, and it is probable that it will be more popular than ever with students next year.

SALVAGE WORK

The salvage department of the Red Cross is having a hard time to get workers and machines. Mr. Nolan, who has taken charge of the work during the absence of Mr. Rowley, states that Saturday only one automobile was offered and four or five boys had to be drafted from the streets to take care of the work. Under those circumstances it has been possible to cover the district in one day. Thursday there will be another drive for papers and everything in the salvage line, and volunteers in the line of workers and machines will be much appreciated. They can report at the warehouse in the rear of the P. E. station.

Today, Tuesday, Mr. Nolan is asking for help in sorting tin foil. This means anyone, boy, girl, man or woman. They are

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1918

LIBERTY LOAN ADVERTISING CONTEST

In preparation for the Fourth Liberty Loan, expected in October, an advertising copy contest with cash prizes was announced yesterday by Harold Janss, Director of Publicity for the Southern California Liberty Loan State Central committee. The winning advertisements will be used by the General Publicity committee in the publicity campaign during the drive.

Contests are held in each of the seven states of the district and the winning advertisements in each state are to be forwarded to San Francisco where a special jury of awards will decide the disposition of the sweepstakes prizes.

Full instructions for the state campaign which must end July 29 have been sent from District Liberty Loan headquarters. First prize in every state will be $35, second prize $25 and third prize $15 with two honorable mentions.

The sweepstakes prizes will be $50, $30 and $20 with two honorable mentions and these will be awarded in San Francisco August 5.

No copy will be considered by the district jury unless forwarded as a prize winner by a state committee of awards.

Rules of the contest are few. The spirit of the copy must be, "Sell the war." The copy must be susceptible of full page display and be ready for delivery to the engraver. A mortise equivalent to eight column inches must be left at or near bottom of each page and layouts must accompany drawings and copy.

The committee of awards in each state is to be appointed immediately by the Liberty Loan chairman and Publicity Director in each state. All copy must be in the hands of the State committees before July 29.

Send all copy to committee on awards, 315 West 5th St., Los Angeles. The committee comprises the following members: H. S. Carroll, president of the Los Angeles advertising club; R. H. P. Moulton, campaign chairman; H. S. McKee, general chairman; R. H. Ballard, vice president Southern California Edison Co.; Harold Janss, director of publicity.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING?

Recently when an American was visiting one of the workshops in Belgium where 800 girls were employed to repair the clothing sent by America for the refugees, one of the girls fainted. After the girl had been revived the American asked the matron if this was a common occurrence. "Oh, yes, Monsieur," was the answer. "Over a dozen faint a day always and sometimes more than that."

The American looked around the room at the drawn, blue-lipped faces. Then it occurred to him to ask the girls what they had had for breakfast. His question disclosed the fact that nearly all of the girls had had only a cup of Teryoline for their morning meal. This is the only beverage that can be bought in Belgium today and is an unpalatable, murky liquid made of roasted rye.

Compare the breakfast you had this morning with the breakfast of these Belgian girls. Can you sit down again to your wholesome and satisfying morning meal without first assuring yourself that you are doing all in your power to feed those in Europe whose cause is our cause, but whose suffering for this cause is so far beyond our own?

Ask yourself frankly, "What am I doing to help?"

"Using less sugar," you say.

How much less? A few teaspoonsful? Or can you measure your savings in pounds?

"Saving the fats," you answer.

Do you mean by this you are careful not to waste butter, or do you mean you are really conserving and making useful all fats that come into your kitchen in the form of meat trimmings, bacon grease, etc.

And about wheat?

Are you only saving the little you can get along without by making your bread with part substitutes or are you saving all your wheat by using the substitutes entirely?

Be fair to those who are suffering so much for the cause, trusting that you in America will do your utmost for the same cause, even if it does mean the sacrifice of a lump of sugar or a few slices of bread a day.

Be fair to your better self that demands your best efforts in food conservation instead of your least, in order to keep your self respect.

THE BLACK CROSS OF DEATH

The shadow of the iron cross is the most deadly the world has ever known, without counting the dead of battlefields, or conflicts at sea, or the incidents of either in which men are slain in more or less excusable ways. Prussianism is the direct cause of the starvation of at least 18,000,000 people, or death from disease caused by insufficient nourishment, within the last three years.

United States Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover says there is no doubt of this fact. He claims that number of lives sacrificed to hunger in the districts of Europe overrun by the military power of Germany. It is the Kaiser blight, cultured in kultur. Those figures do not include the victims of starvation and incidental disease whose lives have been lost in German prisons or those who have been carried out as indicated by the dispatch which says: "Arrival at Petrograd of the first contingent of 1500 Russian prisoners to be exchanged under the recent Russo-German treaty is reported. The 1500 are veritable walking dead men." These wrecks of humanity came from the war prisons in Germany where they had been forced to work beyond human endurance, besides being starved in miserable quarters. Americans, Englishmen and men of France and other nations are barely living under similar conditions.

Their numbers are liable to increase as the war goes on. Some of them will not emerge as walking dead men. The devil in the Kaiser is only partly made into bullets and shells. The great percentage of it is starvation for human beings.—Worcester Telegram.

GOSPEL SHOP EFFICIENCY

The order of business is simple—merely a matter of "all those in favor of being good and doing good say 'aye'! The ayes have it."

There is nothing in the idea of a Federated Christianity to disturb the most radical creed champion who ever raved. Even now the National Commission on Interchurch Federation is actively at work in the field implied by its title. The commission realizes that a community may be overchurched, and discourages the building of sanctuaries in towns where they might be deemed unnecessary. When requested so to do it is possible for the commission to send an impartial agent into a field to investigate and make report. That may recommend a community church, a consolidation of working forces, or the elimination of the weak.

The idea of the business agent in the church is also gaining more in favor every day. The business manager is trained to his task and has charge of the finances and budget of the church. This leaves the pastor in full position to take charge of the spiritual and social work of the congregation without worrying where the money is coming from. On that score the church manager can inform him in a few choice words from time to time.

But the ancient idea that because there was a Methodist church in town there had to be a Presbyterian one is no longer tenaciously held. The church is more of a "come all ye faithful" station. In the institutional form it is sometimes kept open night and day, and is the social and educational as well as religious center. This puts it in the proper position of being of the greatest good to the greatest number. Here is a big and comfortable church, with plenty of warmth and light. Why not make its welcome mean something to everybody? So it may have its lunch counter, its library, its night school, its nursery and dozens of other practical and social features as well as its program of religious service. The saloon would keep open at all hours if it could. Why should not the church, which is its foremost foe, be equally tireless and vigilant?

In harnessing up the Christian forces of a community or district the commission mentioned above will outline three plans: The first is for a union church, the second a federal church, and the third a community church. The first has no denominational name or connection and is simply a getting together for good. Outside of its own immediate field it has no ties or interests. Yet in many a new town this is the ideal form of organization and has worked out with splendid results.

The second plan, of federation, is more pretentious and has been tried in a number of towns as a war measure. In one little community in Vermont there were Methodist and Congregational churches. They were both existing, but neither seemed to thrive. The two congregations came together to permit the Methodist pastor to go to France. The Congregational minister remained in charge, but the organizations and societies of both churches were preserved. As a result both church and Sunday School are much larger than the joint congregations were before and there is a spirit and enthusiasm that was formerly lacking in both. In another field a cyclone appears to have done a good job when it blew two churches to bits. Three congregations now assemble in the one that was left standing and at the end of the first year the total membership was more than twice as great as the united roll of the three churches of which the federation was formed. Federation saves the expense of two or three pastors and the cost of maintaining several sanctuaries in a one-church community. The general public is also more willing to aid and there is no criticism that churches are competing rather than co-operating. In one case the pastor joined all three churches of the federation of which his flock was composed and was thus enabled to represent his people in all the general councils of their creeds. There is undoubtedly a real getting together for good in the federated church and at the same time each member retains his interest and connection with his individual faith.

The community church is frequently affiliated with some definite denomination but is union in the character of its membership. It is liable to be the outgrowth of compromise. Where there are members of half a dozen different faiths there can be a counting of noses and discussion of prospects that will lead to genuine co-operation in the work of a community church. If it be institutional also, so much the better.

A syndicated religion is in keeping with the trend of the times. In God we trust—therefore we may have a trust in God. There can be a co-operation and efficiency in the business of plucking brands from the burning. There is no reason why practical methods and concentration should not be used in the conduct of church affairs. Small dissensions over creeds represent so much waste.

There are a lot of non-essentials that can be filed away with the archives of the faith instead of being constantly displayed in the front window. In a federation there can be exchange and compromise. To one outside the pale it would appear that the form of baptism was not the most important thing in the world in the matter of making a Christian. If a man is going to be a good worker in the cause it doesn't seem to make much difference whether he has a plunge or a shower. Yet able and conscientious students and theologians have parted company over that very proposition for a century.

Now they are drawing together. They find that the business of the Lord can best be carried on by walking in a common path and taking counsel together. The day's work opens their eyes to the waste of lost motion and the value of reducing overhead costs. The federation or institutional church, with a slogan rather than a declaration, is in keeping with the spirit of the hour. If the church has business manager, an advertising department and an orchestra it will still be in accord with the time and possibly still more efficient.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Congregational Church is booked for a picnic tonight (Tuesday) at Brookside Park.

Eugene Imler and a party of friends returned Monday evening from a camping trip to the Yosemite where all had a delightful outing.

W. E. Pelley, the confectioner, who still suffers from inflammatory rheumatism, is planning to go to Murieta Hot Springs the latter part of the week to see if it will relieve his pain.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Tropico Methodist Church will meet Friday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Blythe on East Tenth street.

Miss Minnie Moulton of 223 Blanche avenue, who has been ill from overwork in connection with her labors for the French Relief Ship, is better and is now able to take auto rides.

The Pioneer Club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Herbert Whitaker of Arden avenue. Needlework and knitting will be the order of the day.

Mrs. Belew, of Hotel Victor, who has been giving valuable assistance to the Red Cross, has accepted a position with the Bank of Glendale at the corner of Glendale and Broadway.

Ezra Parker says he is over the worst of his suffering in connection with his bad dose of poison oak, but he still has several fingers in wrappings. He had a bad time and doesn't want another attack.

George Hastings, who has been at Thornycroft Hospital for the past week undergoing an operation, has returned to his home, 209 North Maryland avenue, and hopes to be out in a short time.

Mrs. Harley Crane, formerly Miss Ruth Fairchild of Glendale, is to entertain a party of friends with a barbecue in the Arroyo near her home in Pasadena on Thursday evening. Guests from Glendale will be of the party, which will include Morris Caputhers of 1104 Chestnut street.

Eustace B. Moore of Blanche avenue has a well-developed case of whooping cough contracted from one of the workmen in his employ. His wife and family are much disgusted with his mishap, as it seems altogether probable that his baby daughter will become a victim.

Mr. Hanock, nephew of Mrs. William Harvey, Jr., his wife and baby have established themselves at the Tight Apartments on Third and Everett street for the summer. He is here from Arizona to superintend the construction of trucks to be used in mining operations which are being built in Los Angeles.

Mrs. H. S. West, of Los Angeles, mother of Mrs. Hartley Shaw of 144 Park avenue, came out to visit her daughter about two weeks ago and was taken so ill that she had to be moved to Thornycroft Hospital. She is better and will return to her home next week.

If any one has found a round filigree brooch of dull gold, set with pearls, the finder is requested to bring it to the office of the Evening News and get into communication with the loser, who is greatly disturbed over its disappearance. It was a much prized keepsake and valued for that reason as much as its intrinsic worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy W. Bosserman of 814 South Central avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Ashton had the pleasure of a short visit from Mr. Ashton's nephew, Lyman Brundage, and Mrs. Brundage of Oakland, who are now spending a week in San Diego and will call again at the Bosserman home on their way north. Another welcome visitor was Mrs. Bridgeport of Denver, who is spending a few weeks in California and whom the Ashtons and Bossermans knew in Indiana.

Miss Mattie Freeman of 1517 Sycamore avenue says the news contained in the letters from her brother which have been received recently was not of a character to interest the public and referred chiefly to personal matters. He had been confined to his bed for a few days by a gas attack, but it was not serious and he was about well again.

Mrs. H. V. Findley, who bought the Pelley Confectionery Store on Brand boulevard about six weeks ago, is now in charge there with Miss Elizabeth Bullard to assist her at the soda fountain. She has moved her home from West Fifth street to one of the apartments above the candy store, so is very conveniently situated. She will make no change in the name of the store at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Ayars of 1314 Chestnut street have just returned from an outing at Balboa Beach, which they consider the most charming of all the seaside resorts of Southern California. They enjoyed themselves with their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker, who have taken a cottage there for a month, and divided their time between the mainland and the beach at the Palisades.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis and Mrs. C. H. Ravenscroft, mother of Mrs. Ellis, spent the Fourth and the week end at Laguna Beach, which they expected to find very quiet but which was full of transient tourists, some of whom had camping autos and were therefore independent of hotels and apartments. Many were turned away because of lack of accommodations. The Ellis family had a cottage and thoroughly enjoyed their outing.

Mrs. R. R. Bowling and sister, Miss Eva Smith, who have been visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jackson, for several weeks, have started for their home in Nashville, Tenn., and London, Ky. On the return trip they expect to visit San Francisco, Salt Lake and Chicago. Their visit in Glendale and Los Angeles was a most delightful one. Many other relatives entertained them at beach, mountains, Catalina Island and the many interesting places around were visited. The family reunion and picnic was held at Brookside Park Saturday afternoon and twenty-four were assembled for a good-bye. A fine supper was followed by story and song, with much merriment.

THE BIBLE AND THE UNITED STATES

Pastor Alexander Ritchie, the Adventist Evangelist, of 562 West Second street, this city, who is conducting a series of meetings in Hollywood, announces special sermons next Sunday night and the Sunday evening following on "What the Bible has to say about the United States." He will take up the prophesy which is believed to refer to this country and which contains the number 666 which many people think applies to the Kaiser. The prophesy also introduces another power which is to work in co-operation with the United States. A number of Glendale people are planning to attend the two services.

ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING

The last two days of this month there will be a meeting of the Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-Day Adventist Churches in Los Angeles which will be immediately followed August 1st by the annual camp meeting of the denomination at Orchard and First streets, Los Angeles. At some of the services last year as many as 5000 persons were in attendance and it is expected that as many will come out this year. Some of the best speakers from Washington, D. C., will be there, also the World President of the denomination and which contains the number 666 which many people think applies to the Kaiser. The prophesy also introduces another power which is to work in co-operation with the United States. A number of Glendale people are planning to attend the two services.

That's old and mouldy," she replied, to tease, "Don't think a minute you're the only cheese."

"Now that's more modern, give me more like that; Be up to date, and show me where you're at."

Quite innocent and timidly I asked, "Are you the only hoop upon the cask?" I saw my finish, 'twas no use to push, She was the only rose upon the bush.

Said she, "Perhaps you have a cloven hoof,"

Don't waste anything—eat the paper label on the loaf of bread—it is as nutritious as some breakfast foods. And speaking of cereals, an old whisk broom chopped fine, covered with real cream and plenty of sugar, makes an excellent morning dish. If you have no hose handy, water the garden with your tears. COFFIN NAILS

From time immemorial we have taught the young by precept and by example. These methods are as old as human nature itself.

In teaching our boys to avoid coffin nails we have the first half of the prescription worked out in good shape. On the precept side we are all right. No teacher or any other person will attempt to defend the cigarette or advocate its use. Not even its most confirmed devotee will advise a boy to acquire the habit. Everybody talks the other way. The newspapers will print editorials and the magazines issue special articles pointing out very powerfully the evils of the cigarette habit, the deteriorating, degrading effect of it, the worthlessness and undesirability of the cigarette boy. There is no trouble in the world to get all the publicity you desire, from press and pulpit and rostrum, and all in the same direction. Yes, on the precept side there is nothing lacking. We are armed cap-a-pie for the attack.

But on the other—in the matter of the example—ah! there's the rub! There we are weak; there we are vulnerable. There is the point at which rush in the legions of the enemy. As a people we say all right but we don't do as we say.

We advise the boys not to smoke cigarettes, and then we men, as a nation, go ahead and smoke them in constantly increasing millions. What chance is there for the boys, eager and impatient to become men, to listen to our precepts about the dangers of the habit? Why danger is an added attraction to the ear of Youth! Whom do the boys see as an example, smoking cigarettes? Is it not the gay, handsome fellows, well dressed, with money to spend—the rich young men with automobiles at college—the gilded youths, with a fascinating swagger of recklessness? But these are just what the boys at that stage of their lives would most dearly love to be.

Then the newspapers and magazines—and the bill boards—alas! Omar and Hassan and Khayyam and Fatima haunt your pathway and leer at you and catch your eye at every waking minute, wherever you go. It is impossible to escape them. Velvet Joe and London Life and Lucky Strike and Prince Albert and Bull Durham leap at you whenever you open a paper. And how taking their advertisements have become! The best artists in the land and the most seductive writers extant are bribed to lead their brethren into bondage! The palladium of our liberty, the Press, thunders in one direction editorially at the front door and at the back has the most taking endorsements, most richly illustrated, in exactly the opposite direction!

And how skillfully their ill-gotten profits enable the tobacco men to prey upon poor human nature, how adroitly they press the springs that result in human action! How graceful are the attitudes of the young men who are rolling cigarettes in the pictures! How fashionable are their clothes! How athletic their forms, how debonair their expressions! How admiring the glances of the lovely young ladies that surround them, timidly worshipping, inviting, questioning in the background. How they are whirling in the giddy dance, playing tennis, golf, yachting, motorboating, hunting—how they are lauded as "virile young men," "red-blooded men," "leaders of men," and all that. Always they are youthful, smooth of skin and bright of eye and tall and straight and handsome and admired.

I have not observed any pictures of the snaggle-toothed bum, begging the makin's of a cigarette—of a blear-eyed, unshaven old soot trying to light a stub picked up from the street—of the inane stare and loosened jaw of the weak-minded youth with a butt plastered to his lip. Of the furtive school boy, tallow-faced, unable to keep up with his class! Oh, no, not these at all. Yet they more truly tell the tale than any of the advertising artists who take the thirty pieces of silver.—E. H. in California Blue Bulletin issued by State Department of Education.

PURE WATER FOR ARMY

In order to provide pure drinking water for the men in the trenches and other sections where permanent water-works have not been established, mobile water trains have been constructed and are now operating in France under the jurisdiction of the Army Medical Department. These trains are miniature water-works, which chemically treat, filter, and sterilize water, making it fit for consumption. They do everything that a municipal waterworks does to insure water to the people of a city.

Chemical treatment and filtration remove those substances that make water muddy and discolored. The filtration process also removes a certain number of germs. The removal of the germs is accomplished by applying liquid chlorine, the agent almost universally used in the sterilization of water. Chemicals are also added to dechlorinate—remove excess of chlorine that gives the water an unpleasant taste.

A number of these purification units with their attached motor tank trucks constitute a train. Each unit is mounted on a motor truck, and is a complete filtration plant, including laboratory. Arriving at a stream, it sets hose into the water and then pumps the water through a pressure tank. Before the water passes through the sand filter it is chemically treated. When the water is passed out of the truck it is free from all disease germs. The pure water is pumped into tanks mounted on trucks, which carry the water to the soldiers.

Each mobile unit carries an expert chemist, bacteriologist, and pump man. There is a complete laboratory in the front of the machine for the testing of the water. Tests are made every two hours and oftener when it is thought necessary. The water is lifted into the filter by a gasoline pump engine, and a complete supply of extra pipes and tools is carried so that all repairs, either from accident or shell fire, can be made on the spot. The trucks are equipped with electric lights so that the work can be carried on at night. Many of the chemists and bacteriologists assigned to the mobile laboratories were formerly connected with municipal waterworks and filtration plants.

These purification units are operated by the personnel of the Sanitary Corps of the Medical Department.

"Yes."

"And what are the opinions of a socialist?"

"Same as those of a republican or democrat. He thinks he could run the government a great deal better, if he could only get hold of it."—Ex.
